id associated with a particular mobile device — that can then be used to track and predict consumer behavior.

In essence, it wakes up the inflamed and miniaturized hair follicles to the anagen (growth) phase of hair growth.

Only portions of the HIV virus's genetic material are used for measurements, leading some to speculate about the potential role of viral infections in hair loss.

He stressed that the point he wanted to make was that "the political class in this country need not only to be accountable, but also to be responsive to the needs and concerns of the public."